

CA 1 – Business Intelligence & Visualization Assignment

Presented By: Kartik Satish Kodilkar – 10601324

Submitted On: 02nd December 2024

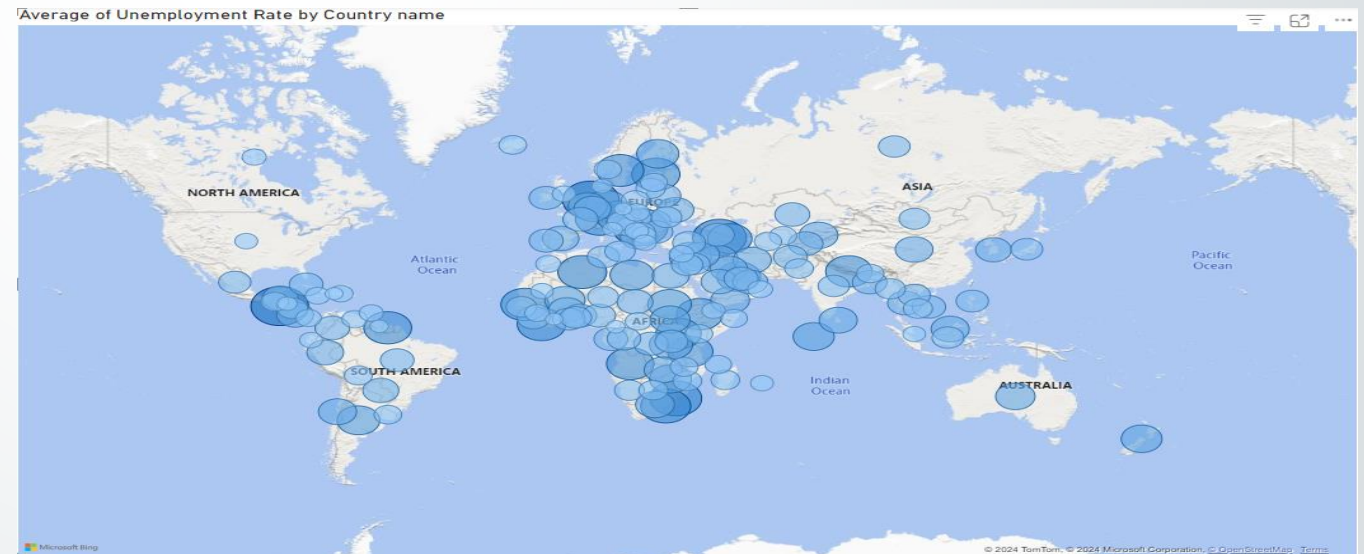

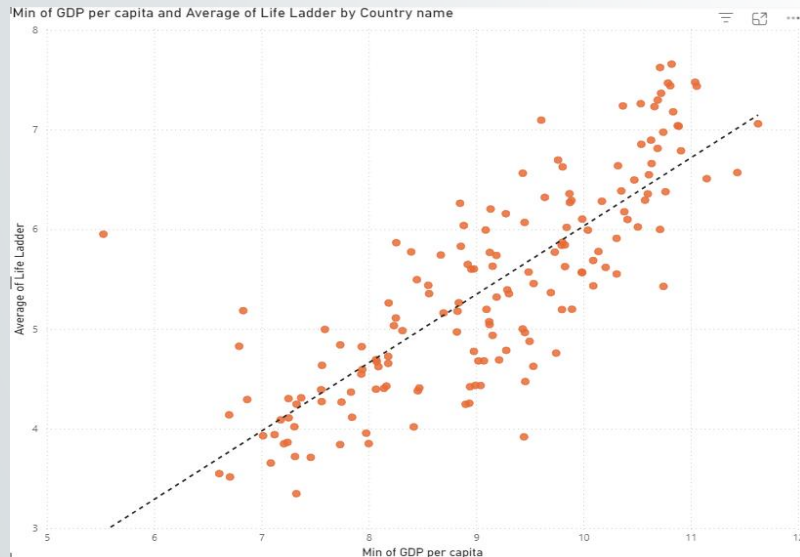

Insight Of Global Well-Being

Reason To Use of Dataset

- The Dataset used for the following insights are unemployment rate and world happiness report dataset.
- Following dataset with help to combine subjective well-being metrics (e.g., Life ladder) with objective economic metrics (e.g. GDP per capita, unemployment rate).
- It will offer a comprehensive view of how societal and economic factors influence happiness and life satisfaction globally.

Why It's Valuable

- It covers diverse dimensions such as health, freedom and employment.
- Provides actionable insights for policy makers and organizations to enhance global well-being.
- The first graph represents the GDP per capita Vs Life Ladder
- While the second graph shows unemployment world wide

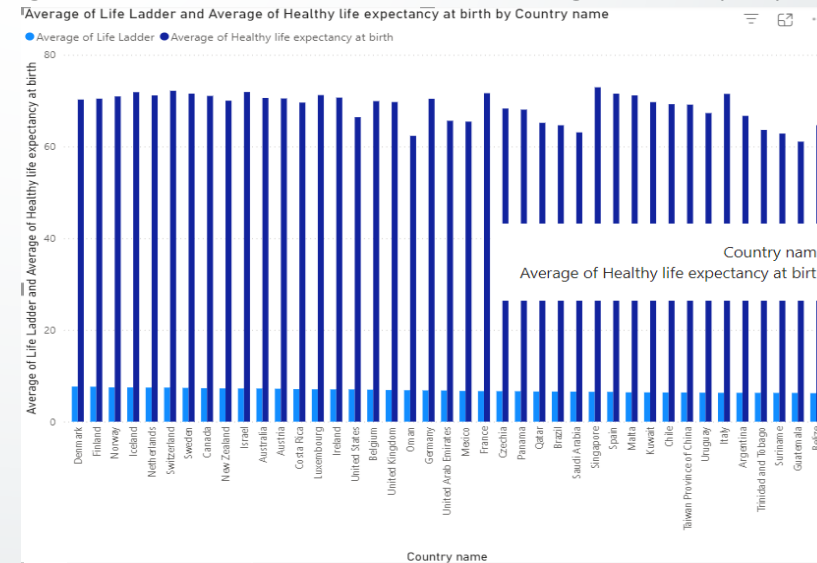

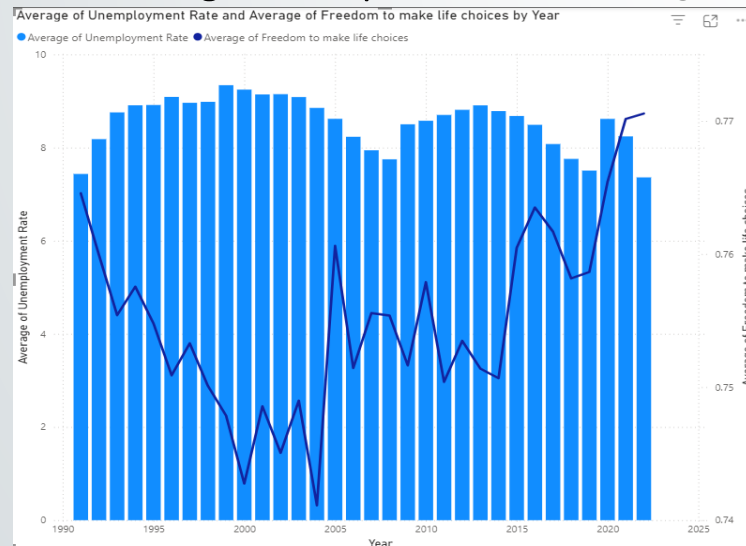

Insight & Solution Through Dashboard

Insights Through Dashboard

- Correlation Insights : This demonstrates relationships between GDP, happiness, freedom and unemployment rate.
- Regional Trends: The regional trends highlights global disparities in unemployment and happiness.
- Time-Based Trends: The time based trends helps in tracking the progress in freedom and employment over decades.

Proposed Solutions

- For High Unemployment: With the high unemployment rate, it will organizations to implement employment programs and enhance job security.
- For Low Happiness: Improvement in personal freedom and healthcare access can be done through this trend can be more helpful.
- For Regional Disparities: Resourcing directly to the regions with low life ladder and high unemployment rate.

To Drive Positive Change

- Visualizing relationship between key metrics such as GDP per capita, life ladder, unemployment rate, freedom and healthy life expectancy.
- Positive correlation: GDP per capita and life ladder proves that wealth tends to boost happiness
- Negative Correlation : Job stability enhances personal freedom is shown through .correlation between Unemployment and Freedom.

Use Of Insights:

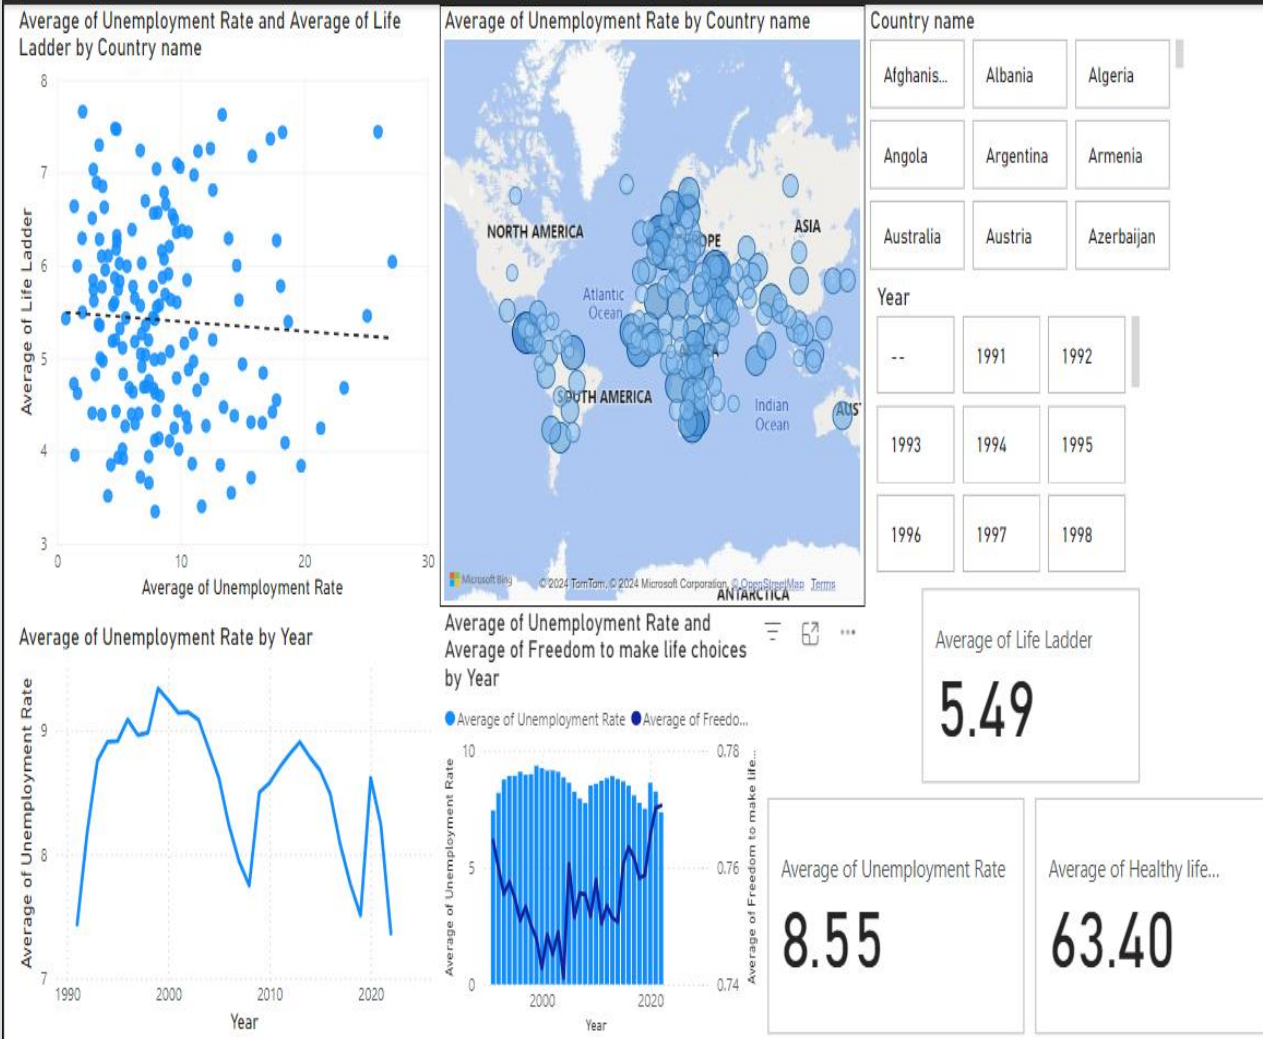

Policy Making: To boost happiness and freedom of individuals policy makers can target job stability & employment programs.

Resource Allocation: Strong use of correlations will help to prioritize investments in health and infrastructure.

Benchmarking: Countries with high life ladder scores can set a expectation and learning despite having economical challenges

Complete Dashboards

Unemployment Dashboard

GDP Per Capita Dashboard

